

GERALD BARKDOLL

Gerald (Jake) Barkdoll's understanding of organizations and their management has developed from a variety of careers as:

- Senior Consultant, National Academy of Public Administration
- Founder and facilitator of the Balanced Scorecard Interest Group
- Associate Commissioner for Planning and Evaluation, Food and Drug Administration
- Director of the University of Southern California's Washington Center where he also taught evaluation, research and planning.
- Corporate Controller and Chief Financial Officer,
- Registered Industrial Engineer

His success in helping organizations perform effectively have earned him two Presidential Senior Executive Meritorious Rank Awards, The FDA Award of Merit (twice) and the Gunnar and Alva Myrdal Award for Government Service presented by the American Evaluating Association.

Dr Barkdoll's publications reflect his interest in discovering or creating workable management processes integrating both analytical and behavioral concepts. He has authored over a dozen articles and book chapters including "Balanced Scorecards in the Federal Government", The Public Manage; "Individual Personality and Organizational Culture or Let's Change This Place So I Feel More Comfortable." Public Administration and Management; and "Targeted Planning: A Paradigm for the Public Sector." (with Morris Bosin), Long Range Planning; He edited (with James Bell) Evaluation and the Federal Decision Maker: New Directions for Program Evaluation, Vol. 41.

He received his Doctorate in Public Administration from the University of Southern California and his MBA and BS (Engineering) from Drexel University. His lifelong sport is Volleyball.